

The conglomerate of academic institutions united by the Grenoble Alpes University Community (UGA) has been selected winner of the Excellence Initiative (IDEX) by an international jury chaired by Jean-Marc Rapp. The project submitted by the COMUE "Communauté Université Grenoble Alpes" under the programme "Investments for the Future" aims at creating a world-class university, with a strong international reputation, founded on scientific excellence, dynamism of its ecosystem, the leading rôle in educational innovation and student success, the involvement and commitment of the socio-economic and cultural world and local authorities. This date will mark a new beginning for the new institution and will be a major boon for all the laboratories involved. For LAPTh this will reinforce our contribution to the Excellence Laboratory Initiative (Labex) Enigmass and build upon our efforts in building a strong collaboration with the laboratories of the site in the framework of the UGA scientific clusters. More details on the UGA IDEX project can be found here (in French).